From Page to Stage: The Technology of Theatrical Design:
Tom Fiocchi, Kjersten Lester-Moratzka, C. David Russell

The School of Theatre presents a showcase of costumes, props and stage-set design, highlighting the fusion of old and new technologies forged on the road of perpetual problem solving to create new visions. Objects in theatre design are taken out of their historical context and thrust onto the stage where they must perform in new ways, survive catastrophe, and adapt to evolving materials. Artists and master Craftsman in their disciplines bend and tweak the rules of traditional techniques to bring forth objects to fulfill the design and performance objectives of theatrical productions.

Gallery Talk: Friday, February 8, noon, Trisolini Gallery

Reception: Tuesday, February 12, 7-9 PM
